2	Black	The bottom-left half
3	Gold	The bird of paradise
4	White	The five stars

DID YOU KNOW?

The golden bird is a Raggiana bird-of-paradise, the national bird of Papua New Guinea. It is famous for its beautiful, colourful feathers used in traditional dances.

The five white stars form the Southern Cross, a group of stars you can see in the night sky south of the equator.

Red and black are traditional colours in Papua New Guinean art. The flag was designed by a 15-year-old schoolgirl, Susan Karike, in 1971.

Papua New Guinea sits just north of Australia. It has thick rainforests, high mountains and hundreds of islands, and more than 800 languages are spoken there, more than in any other country!
