1	Red	The top band
2	White	The wide middle band
3	Green	The bottom band
4	Gold	The crown and seven stars

DID YOU KNOW?

The golden crown stands for the Tajik people's sovereignty and their long, proud history. Crowns like this appear on ancient artefacts found in Tajikistan.

The seven stars arranged in an arc above the crown represent the seven regions of Tajikistan, unified as one nation, along with the seven days of creation in local folklore.

Red stands for the unity and sovereignty of the nation, white for cotton (a major Tajik crop) and purity, and green for agriculture and the country's mountain valleys.

Tajikistan is a mountainous country in Central Asia — over 90% of the land is mountains! It's home to the Pamir range, sometimes called the 'Roof of the World'.
